Criteria for initiatives

To be eligible for an Appeltje van Oranje 2021, the initiative must meet the following requirements. The submitted initiative:

- has been created to help people who are mentally vulnerable or ill, with equality and experience-based knowledge being the main starting points;
- has an approach that is focused on bringing people together;
- is dedicated to having the target group participating (again or more) in society, with self-management being an important aspect;
- mainly uses volunteers to support people who are having mental problems, and also recognizes the added value of the use of volunteers; a Caribbean approach of volunteers plays a role, yet not a predominant one.
- has shown to be (locally) supported;
- is organized by a social organization (in the form of a foundation or an association);
- has been active since before September 1st, 2018;
- is active within the Kingdom of the Netherlands.

We particularly pay attention to such elements as an innovative approach, regard for diversity, inclusion, awareness-raising and a taboo-breaking way of working.

Criteria for approach

- employs people who support the target group, other than for professional care purposes;
- focuses on environmental factors and loved ones;
- has a differentiating approach that works in an exceptional way within the (local) context;
- has a clear vision on and/or a successful approach of the use of volunteers to support people and their mental health;
- the concept serves as an example and is transferable.
